REED AGAIN IS DENIED SEAT

Credentials Committee Overwhelmingly Decides Against Missouri Senator

By International News Service.

San Francisco, June 29.—The smoothly running machinery of the Wilson administration functioned perfectly in the committee on credentials early today and three opponents of the White House—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, and Senator Hoke Smith and Tom Watson of Georgia—again went down to defeat.

After a lengthy session the committee succeeded in agreeing upon a report which will be presented to the convention today, recommending the denial of a seat to Senator Reed and dismissal of the claims of Hoke Smith-Tom Watson delegates from Georgia.

The committee voted 43 to 4 in favor of dismissing the Smith-Watson claims and the seating of the twenty-eight Palmer delegates from Georgia. In the case of Senator Reed the vote was 29 to 9 against allowing him to participate in the convention.

NINE VOTES FOR REED.

For nearly seven hours the committee wrestled with the two cases taking ample testimony and hearing much oratory from representatives of both sides. At the end the opinion seemed to prevail that the trio of Wilson opponents had been disciplined and the vote in each case was convincing.

In the Reed case nine members of the committee swung away from the administration's wishes and voted to give the Missouri senator a seat. They were: Florida, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Utah, Alaska and the District of Columbia. Six members, Indiana, Iowa, New Hampshire, Vermont, Hawaii and Porto Rico were recorded as not voting.

The New Jersey member, Charles H. Gallagher of Trenton, was emphatic in his vote.

"As a delegate from Woodrow Wilson's home State, his own town and his own county, I vote for Jim Reed," declared Gallagher as he strode from the committee long after midnight and made for his hotel without waiting to vote on the remaining contests.

Only four States lined up with the Smith-Watson faction in the voting on the Georgia cases. They were Colorado, Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Utah.

Opposition to President Wilson was

HEAT DEATH IN DORCHESTER

Owen Craven, 70 Years Old, Is First Victim of Present Season

The first death of the Summer caused by heat came today. Owen Craven, seventy years old, of No. 7 Richfield street, Dorchester, collapsed on an express wagon on Stanley street, Dorchester.

Dr. Joseph J. Grover of No. 657 Blue Hill avenue, who was passing in his automobile, pronounced death due to heart failure, superinduced by the heat.

Sticky humidity with increasing temperature made today one of the most uncomfortable of the season. Though the humidity registered officially but 66 per cent, the combination of sudden heat after a cool night found Boston unprepared to cope with it.

SOLDIERS DESTROY HOUSES

British and Sinn Fein Forces Both Patrol Streets of Cork

Cork, Ireland, June 29.—Soldiers have attacked and wrecked the villages of Lismore and Clondulane, according to a report reaching Sinn Fein headquarters today.

Bombs were exploded and one civilian was wounded by rifle fire. Many homes were wrecked and stores looted.

This city was patrolled by two different factions of armed men during the night. The Sinn Feiners occupied one-half of the city while British soldiers held the other.

A Sinn Fein courier has arrived at Fermoy with a dispatch stating that Brigadier-General C. H. Lucas of the British army, who was captured by Sinn Feiners last Saturday, is in good health and is being well treated. The dispatch was dated "Cork Brigade Headquarters."

By DAVID I. WALSH.
United States Senator from Massachusetts.
(Copyright, 1920, By Universal Service.)

San Francisco, June 29.—The convention has opened. It was prayer and keynote speech day. The speeches were able and they clearly and eloquently set forth the accomplishments of the administration, before and during the war.

President Wilson himself could not possibly have made a better presentation of his position on the league covenant than Temporary Chairman Cummings.

Who shall be the party nominee for the presidency—obviously—is still undetermined.

During the next few days the centre of attention here will be on the deliberations of the committee on resolutions. The various States have selected their most experienced Democratic leaders to represent them in this important work.

The Turkish losses were particularly severe in the region of Alashehir. Greek cavalry inflicted severe rear guards.

Prohibition Officer McCarthy Charged With Profanity in Speeding Case

Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer William J. McCarthy of Boston was found guilty of speeding, disturbance of the peace and failure to produce an automobile registration card when ordered, in Hingham District Court today.

District Judge Kelley fined him $25 each on the first two counts, and filed the third when it was explained he could not find the card.

An appeal was taken by Attorney John P. Feeney, acting for McCarthy, and the case will be tried in Superior Court in Plymouth in July.

By agreement between counsel, no testimony was put in, Mr. Feeney stated his client's defense, and Attorney Thomas Buttimer for the town of Hull stated the charges against the Federal official.

Ours is not a passing prosperity; it is permanent.
In our loans and investments we look to the future as well as at the present.
Money will be cheaper. Bankers who lend all their money on short term, high rate loans will come into the time when discount rates will fall; and with it will come a drop in interest payments by them.
We are guarding against this. We are not carrying all our eggs in one basket.
We have loans at the high market rate, and we have three-year loans at less than that rate. When the drop comes, our three-year loans will then be higher than the market rate. Our loans practically assure our ability to continue for a long time to come the payment of monthly interest at the rate we so happily inaugurated and which others have tried to follow, but which some will be forced to drop when present rates drop.
Our savings depositors have fared better than others. They have received interest compounded monthly at the rate of 5%, and have been allowed to withdraw deposits at any time practically without the loss of interest. # WILSON TRIUMPH FORCES "REBELS" TO FIGHT FROM FLOOR

GLASS DICTATES PLANKS; ROBINSON HOLDS REINS

completely crushed in the organization of the resolutions committee.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, President's choice, was elected chairman unanimously.

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, an anti-league man, was made secretary.

William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, who had been marshalling anti-administration forces for days, was forced to surrender his own ill-fated candidate for the committee, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, declined to enter.

ROBINSON TO PRESIDE.

The administration triumph which means clear sailing for them through the convention today, many are freely admitting that President Wilson could be renominated if he so desired—came simultaneously with a similar victory in the permanent organization committee. Senator Joseph T. Robinson was the unanimous choice for chairman of the convention.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the resolutions committee shall not lose of the administration completely in its appointment of the subcommittee of seven to write the Democratic party platform.

The nine all except Senators Walsh of Massachusetts, being considered almost pure administration men, are: Chairman, Senator Glass; Senator Walsh; Vance McCormick of Pennsylvania; Raimond Colby, Secretary of State; M. M. Crane of Texas; Senator K. B. McKellar of Tennessee; W. R. Thompson of Maine; Senator Hollins of Colorado, and George E. Hodges of Kansas.

NOMINATIONS FIRST.

The rules committee has decided to report in favor of making the nominating speeches as often as possible, but to have the convention take up ballot on candidates until the committee resolutions reports the platform.

As a result of the Wilson victory in prohibition plank such as proposed by William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, will win a place in the platform but in the same fashion the so-called liberal plank as proposed by Postmaster-General Burleson, with the backing of the New York, Illinois and Ohio delegations, will be shut out.

The plank expected to take rank with the League as an issue will be a labor declaration on which Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby has been working a little more than settling the liberal and progressive element.

Whether the Wilson triumph in the writing of the platform will result in the appearance of minority reports on the floor of the convention no one can tell. The Bryan-Walsh coalition must decide upon a definite report before after their program has been so ruthlessly dealt with in the resolutions committee.

WILL HEAR IRISH PLEA.

Bryan is taking less about his "house of glass" and more about his determination that there shall be no "wet" plank. In addition, he has a plank of his own on international affairs that is bound to receive considerable attention. Among the latter proposes a constitutional amendment calling for treaty ratification by a majority vote.

Senator Glass' league plank, yet to be made public, has been practically agreed upon. As the situation now is was agreed that the Irish question should be taken out of the league declaration despite the appeal for an Irish freedom plank being voiced here by Frank P. Walsh and President De Valera.

Work, however, will be given a hearing before the resolutions committee. Vice-President Marshall, the Indiana member of the resolutions committee, may submit a league plank in event the fight between the administration and anti-forces becomes too bitter. His plank, differing slightly in language, would put no step forward as a means between the two extremes.

PERMANENT OFFICERS.

The following permanent organization slate, chosen by the committee last night, is to be voted before the Democratic National Convention today for ratification:

Chairman, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Secretary, Edward G. Hoffman of Indiana.

Assistant secretary, Edward F. Burton of North Carolina.

Executive secretary, W. H. Hollister of Missouri.

Urge Plank for Postal Men at Convention

The members of the Pelham Club of Boston, through their secretary, Senator Thomas F. Dinneen, have wired to United States Senator David I. Walsh and to San Francisco asking that a plank in the party platform providing better incomes for postal employees and all Federal employees.

The telegram reads as follows:

"A much-needed service can be rendered by the Democratic party towards bringing about increased income for all postal and other neglected Federal employees. Will you endeavor to incorporate a plank in party platform to bring relief to these worthy and faithful public workers—men and women who help pay for their loyalty during the period of mounting living costs, while their income remained the same? Pelham Club wishes success to you at convention."

night of May 10 McCarthy was served with a summons after he had been observed speeding by Traffic Officer Marshall.

He said McCarthy was further charged with disturbance of the peace and failure to produce a registration card after he had expressed his opinion of the Hull police in profane terms.

This alleged abuse went so far, according to Attorney Rodmore that McCarthy asked a bystander as a favor to "get that fellow to take off his tin and step around to the rear of the garage."

People in the vicinity were awakened by the noisy altercation, according to Marshall's deposition.

DEFENCE BY FEENEY.

Attorney Feeney in defence did not deny that Mr. McCarthy could not find his auto registration card at the moment.

He said that he was speeding after a suspicious truck believed to contain liquor.

Taking up the disturbance of the peace charge, Mr. Feeney endeavored to minimize the seriousness of the altercation, and pleaded that his client had been under a terrific strain in trying to enforce the prohibition law impartially.

WALSH DEMANDS LIBERALISM

Approves Opening Note, but Insists Platform Be Clearly Progressive

tee on resolutions are an exceptionally large number of statesmen of national stature. It is this committee that will have to balance the conflicting views of the liberal and conservative elements of the Democratic party.

It is this committee that will grapple during the next forty-eight hours with the prohibition question, the League of Nations plank, profiteering, industrial relations and kindred issues.

It is the committee that will determine more than any other factor whether the Democratic party is to reach out by a broad, liberal and progressive platform to gather to the support of its ticket the great body of independent and dissatisfied Republican voters who are privately but determinedly protesting against the reactionary tendency in the Republican party since the Chicago convention.

FLOOR FIGHTS LIKELY.

The committee on resolutions has therefore the most difficult task of any convention. Squabbles will likely report in the main will be accepted.

There is a strong likelihood of a bitter contest on the floor of the floor, but it is not one plank that really determines the character of a political platform. A political party platform should have spirit in it. The entire country discloses the political state of mind of the party.

The Republican platform indicates that that party has become reactionary conservative. The Democratic platform will determine whether it is going to appeal to the country on a conservative or on a liberal platform. If the Democratic platform is conservative in character, the voters of the country will be left with only a choice between the ultra and the mildly conservative forces. The great, liberal, independent-thinking, progressive forces will be without a candidate or a party that will awaken their enthusiasm, and as disappointed in the Democratic platform as they are today in the Chicago platform.

We believe every Democrat sincerely interested in winning this election and who has his ear to the ground, must realize that the opportunity which has been presented to the Democratic party will be taken advantage of only by a platform which is unmistakably liberal in tone and progressive in spirit.

It is now time to do with the shaping of the Democratic platform. William Jennings Bryan, however one may differ with Bryan's views on public questions, the fact still remains there is no individual in the convention who has a larger individual following and who is as well known to the average delegate as Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Cummings' speech was well received, and is embodied, as such a speech should, a review of Democratic achievements—from a complete view, for, singularly, it omitted all reference to prohibition—the greatest achievement in which our party can lay claim.

"TERRORIZED INTO SILENCE."

It would seem impossible, were it not true, that any Democrat, large or small, could be considered for a keynote speech could be terrorized into silence by the friends of the saloon, even after the liquor traffic has been barred by the constitutional amendment, and that amendment enforced by criminal laws sustained in every respect by the Supreme Court of the land. There are some who think the question should be avoided on the theory that it is dead.

When did a corpse ever before possess such a power to frighten?

But Chairman Cummings hails from one of the three States that failed to ratify, and a recent convention in his State declared for wine and beer. The delegates from the remaining forty-five States may repair the harm he has done by adopting a dry plank congratulating the party on its honorable part in this great moral victory.

Believing that compulsory prohibition is not compatible with American ideas, but that the public have a right to know the facts in any plank that affects the general welfare, I shall submit for consideration of the committee a very simple plank, which is identical in its general provisions with the plan embodied in thirty treaties which three-quarters of the world afterwards made the cornerstone of a league of nations.

Even before I suggested it for international disputes I endeavored to have it applied to industrial disputes.

It contemplates a permanent board of three members, one chosen from the classes assumed to be in sympathy with the employer, one chosen from the classes supposed to be in sympathy with the employes and the third selected with a view to finding a person as nearly impartial as possible.

BRIEF INVESTIGATION.

In each dispute two members would be added to the commission, one chosen by each side. A little time would be allowed for investigating. The report of the commission would not be binding on either side, but would be a guide of public opinion. Such a commission would not make strikes impossible, but the fact that such an investigation could be made would go far toward compelling conciliation.

Mr. Gompers is here and will doubtless be heard by the resolutions committee. He is not likely to have any difficulty in securing a recognition for all the rights of labor, for this is quite a different convention from that which assembled in Chicago three weeks ago.

I shall ask the committee to include in the platform a provision for a permanent commission with a view to settling industrial disputes before they reach the strike or lockout stage. At present the third party, the public, seems to be ignored, and yet it is the public that furnishes the money for both employer and employes.

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

Written Expressly for International News Service.

(Copyright, 1920, by International News Service.)

San Francisco, June 29.—The convention opened in regular style, with incitements calculated to unloose any lurking spirit of enthusiasm. The flag was unfurled when "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung. When a large-size picture of the President was unveiled the convention had its first opportunity to give vent to feelings.

Wall Street Betting Favors McAdoo

These odds against the nomination of Democratic presidential aspirants are noted in Wall street:

McAdoo, 2 to 1, as against 2½ to 1 last Saturday.

Cox, 2½ to 1, as against 2 to 1 last Saturday.

Alfred E. Smith, 2½ instead of 3½ to 1.

Marshall, 7 to 1, against 4½ to 1.

Burleson, 8 to 1, against 5 to 1.

Champ Clark, 3½ to 1, against 3 to 1.

Palmer, 4 to 1, against 3 to 1.

Wilson, 4½ to 1, against 4 to 1.

Meredith, 8 to 1.

Colby, 7 to 1.

Hitchcock and Glass, 10 to 1.

Simmons and Brandeis, 12 to 1.

A banker who predicted Harding's nomination at Chicago, predicted Meredith's nomination at San Francisco.

Fred Schumm of Brooklyn reported bets of $400 to $500 that a "wet" plank will be adopted at San Francisco, and $800 against $2,000 that Harding will not be elected. There were wagers of 2 to 1 that Harding will win.

MYSTERY FIRE IN HOTEL ESSEX

Hand of Maniac Incendiary Seen in Clothes' Closet Blaze

all visited with fire within a week. It is suspected that the man is a deserter from the navy.

Boston police are convinced that the man who started the blaze in the Hotel Essex was a guest of the hotel, who entered the house for that purpose, and that he is a maniac who will continue until he has caused a real tragedy in Boston or been apprehended.

WATCHMAN DISCOVERS FIRE

Smoke was discovered pouring out of a shaft on the ninth floor of the Essex by Night Watchman John McKeown, who immediately called to Chief Clerk James Doherty. Doherty traced the smoke through the various shafts to the fifth floor and a small closet in which linen was kept.

Doherty caused the telephone clerk to arouse guests in the vicinity of the fire, who were warned to be ready to leave if the blaze got beyond control.

A still alarm was sent in and Engine 2 and Ladder Company 11 responded. The fire was extinguished at the loss of only $500, and with slight damage caused by the efficient work of the hotel attendants.

From the condition of the closet Doherty declared he was convinced the fire was the work of an incendiary. He was also convinced that the incendiary was a guest, as a corps of attendants under his personal direction kept watch in the lobby and on the stairways after midnight.

HOTEL REGISTER SCANNED.

Acting on this theory, police were today making quiet but thorough investigations as to the various persons registered at the hotel last night.

The Essex Hotel fire is the fifth of a kind since Thursday morning. On that day a fire which aroused suspicion broke out in the Adams House, while on Friday a fire starting in clothes closet threatened the Hotel Hollis.

Saturday the Hotel Brewster was visited by the mysterious firebug.

On Sunday morning the American House was set on fire. Damage amounting to thousands of dollars was done and guests were forced hurriedly to the halls and lobbies.

"Harry is the best fellow in the world and I will stick to him to the last," said Eleanor (Baby Doll) Baker, upon the completion of a two-hour visit to Harry (Sneaks) Baker at the State Prison in Charlestown, where he is serving a life sentence in connection with the killing of Dwight P. Chapman, an aged Civil War veteran, at Westboro a year ago.

She promised to write to him every night and declared that she would do everything in her power to bring about his freedom. She was released on parole from the Worcester County Jail last December, after a term at the site one witnessed by the prison guards, a couple of newspaper men and a half dozen visitors, who were in the prison rotunda on the same mission as Eleanor, to see prisoners.

The pair embraced each other for a couple of minutes. Eleanor threw herself into Baker's arms, asserting a life long devotion and allegiance.

"The love I told Harry I had has not been broken, in spite of the stories which have been circulated," declared Eleanor. "I did not see Harry while the prisoners at Worcester and I did not write them any letters, so lies have been circulated. There was a fellow there who resembled Harry a great deal, in fact he looked like Harry's double and I could not help but notice him. A prisoner, who was then confined in the jail and who since been sentenced to the State prison here, got chummy with Harry and told him the following story.

VISIT MAKES HER HAPPY.

"I have straightened out the matter with Harry by my visit and told him the truth. He knows that I love him and that I will stick to the last. He feels happier, and I feel a thousand per cent. happier by my visit."

She intended look for employment. She will remain in Worcester, as the condition of her parole is that she report to the probation officer every month.

Eleanor is going to straighten out her marital status. Years ago she was the bride of Albert Steinert of Millbury, but she always thought she was legally separated from him, but there are certain formalities which the law insists shall be observed. She is going to clear up the legal entanglement of Mr. Steinert & Sons which will make her forever free she can marry him again. She always believed she was legally married to Harry, she says.

HERBERT F. ROBERTS' OBJECTIONS STAND

Editor American:

I wish to correct a statement made in your issue of June 26 in regard to the withdrawal of my objections to the granting of a license to Batchelder & Snyder for a poultry slaughtering house on Richmond street in the premises adjoining mine.

At the hearing on the application which was brought before the Board of Health, the only one I heard to withdraw their objections was the grocery house on Richmond street who withdrew their objections after a discussion on street congestion. My objections to the granting of the license still stand.

It was not my intention to withdraw my objections upon being offered a rental for a small patch between the coolie which I could find on my premises, but to insist upon my interests of my business.

Disputes Claim for Married Teachers

That married women do not make the best school teachers is the firm conviction of Dr. Payson Smith, State Commissioner of Education. Dr. Smith disagrees with the recent findings of an expert of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

"There is probably no work to which marriage and normal home life could contribute qualifications more essential than to teaching," Dr. William S. Learned of the Carnegie Foundation recently reported.

Dr. Smith of Massachusetts takes issue. "It is normal to expect," he said he, "that the first interest of any married woman is her home and her family. The married woman teacher, therefore, would bring to school an interest secondary to what she left at home.

"But teaching and education demand from a woman the best she has of loyalty and allegiance. Give anything less than the best and education suffers. I understand the ground taken by the Carnegie expert—undoubtedly there are some qualities of maturity and broad humanity which a married woman is exceptionally fitted to bring to teaching. But the drawbacks are enough to disqualify these.

"In certain section of New England now, though hardly here at home, there is a scarcity of teachers. Draw from the ranks of married women to fill these vacancies and you will find, when times change, an insistent army of married women asking to be kept on when there are plenty to fill their ranks from among single women teachers. It seems best, and most normal, for the married woman to do her work where her greatest work is—and that is in the home."

ASK $50,000 FOR 3 PROPOSALS

Then Lass Who Loved a Soldier Settles Out of Court for Blasted Romance

And Romance gleamed beneath the sword
In days with laggard thrills,
But will it leave the village, oh Lord,
When Tillie comes to it?
What, Tillie, confidences is this, Dear Friend,
Your cousin's vow to love,
And then return to—what and end—
A breach of promise case?—Observer.

New York, June 29.—Before he sailed away to France, William A. Weeks, son of a well-known Peekskill jeweler, proposed and engaged himself to marry one Miss Ethel May Adams, to-day seven years old, according specifications and charges came out in the Supreme Court in White Plains when she brought suit for $50,000.

Miss Adams was the housekeeper in the home of Mrs. Ruth Credit at Peekskill. It was there she alleged the romance began and she submitted letters to prove it.

PROPOSED THREE TIMES.

In her testimony she gave a list of Weeks's proposals while he was a student at Columbia University. She said that when he first asked her she said he was too young. She said the lover urged that he had good prospects. She said he proposed twice in August and again in October, and on the third offer she accepted, she said.

She testified she received a letter from Weeks from France in which he said:

"Love is wonderful. Ours could not have been greater. When I return it will take me several years to get on my feet again.

"It would be wrong to keep you waiting. If you are willing to wait I could not love you in the same childish way all of that time. It would be folly to jump into matrimony on the impulse. God knows you would make me a wonderful wife, and God knows it would be better for our engagement to be dissolved."

HIS "HEART FULL OF LOVE."

To this she said she replied:

"I will not break the engagement until I see you face to face. I did not expect you to jump into matrimony the moment you returned. When you speak of childish love, it must have been on your own part.

"You were not a kid when you ran what you did."

In the testimony she presented another letter from Williams, which she said showed the glow of romance. It was dated January 21, 1918, and read:

"I would like to be with you, watching the firefly—but Uncle Sam is now overtime. 10:30. I have not the kiss. But there it is—smack! Yours with a heart full of love."

Shortly afterward the court announced that the suit had been settled out of court. Details were not announced. Miss Adams and Weeks refused to discuss the case.

BuyFishtoBeatH.C.L., Says Woman's Union

Buy fish instead of meat, and beat the H. C. L.

Buy steak cod at 10 cents a pound, instead of beef steak at $1.25.

It's just as nourishing if cooked right, more healthful as a hot weather food, and several times cheaper.

That is the old slogan being received by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

Mrs. Reginie L. Carr, kitchen superintendent for the Union, said today: "There is no need of people paying $1.25 for beef steak, the ridiculous prices demanded last Saturday, when bluefish is only 5 cents a pound.

"Mackerel is only 12 to 15 cents a pound, haddock 15 cents a pound, good cod and haddock retail as low as 8 cents.

"If housewives would only buy fish, the demand for these excessively high-priced meats would fall off, and we would have meat at a price where we could afford to buy it. With fish, the secret is in the cooking. There are a number of cooking fish nicely, so that it is as appetizing as meat, and much more wholesome for a hot weather dish.

"For instance, take a nice haddock or cod, clean the fish and have it skinned. Boil it. It will then flake off in large flakes. Then make a thick cream or tomato sauce. Put the fish in ramekins, add bread crumbs on top and brown. Any cold fish dish is very delicious. Then fish may be made up into a very appetizing dish with Spanish sauce.

"Mackerel again, is cheap and delicious. Broiled, it is one of the best ways of broiling it and then adding hot milk, salt and pepper to taste. Fillet of sole is very delicious, either weather, broiled or baked, with a lobster sauce. And boiled cod, also with the mark of the broiling iron to add dash, is acceptable.

"But perhaps the very least expensive fish is pollock. It is like bluefish. Broil it, add lemon, parsley and butter sauce. Then served with a drawn butter sauce. This is baked or broiled Boston bluefish, and it may be found in the market today for the very cheap price of five cents a pound. Fish should be utilized by the housewife to bring down the price of meat. It is just as good food, and, when not for hot weather, far less heating."

LIQUOR CHECK ELWELL CLEW

Leads Police to Believe That Bootlegger Murdered Turfman

New York, June 29.—A check for $12,700 given in payment for liquor, signed by Joseph B. Elwell, just two days before he was found in his home, murdered, is the latest clew in the mystery-killing.

The check never reached the clearing house, but like the authorities have its history. It was given by Elwell, they say, to a former "business associate," who acted as his agent in turning it over to a New York liquor dealer. The dealer was asked to hold the check a couple of days until it could be fully covered at the bank. He waited only one day. Then Elwell's murder was discovered.

"For God's sake get that check back and hold it. I'll fix it up with you," Elwell's associate in the deal is said to have begged the liquor man.

In some manner he did get the check back, but he mentioned it "quietly" to some friends, and it reached the ears of the authorities.

This has given the officials working on the murder mystery another line to follow—the possibility that the whisk expert may have been slain because of a bootlegging scheme in which he either double-crossed someone or was double-crossed himself.

The authorities have the names of practically every man in the $12,700 deal, and all will be examined. Particular importance is attached to the fact that the man who gave the check to the saloonkeeper, and himself endorsed it, has never mentioned the transaction to the authorities, although interviewed several times.

WOMEN PRAISE CUMMINGS

Declare His Keynote Speech at Convention a Democratic Campaign Winner

By MRS. GEORGE BASS,
Chairman Women's Bureau, Democratic Woman's National Committee.

Written Exclusively for International News Service.

San Francisco, June 29.—"It will begin to half dawn" were really the truth, the delegates to this greatest of all conventions would be starting homeward tomorrow night instead of enjoying themselves in this wonderful city for four days more. For never was a better beginning, and surely never was there been a more inspiring keynote speech than that of the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

As a group of the women, called afterward to discuss other matters, one enthusiast remarked that Cummings had voiced the spirit and sentiments of all the women present, and another announced that the national committee might as well save itself the expense of a handbook, as all the "keynote" speech was there set out and win the campaign was contained in this pronouncement of the achievements and principles of the Democratic party.

Nothing more fiercely downright and concrete than a woman bent on political action has ever made its debut in American life. No one who had the women adopted a resolution of thanks to Governor Roberts of Tennessee, for calling a special session of the Legislature in order to ratify the suffrage amendment, that another woman called attention to the need of haste, since the women of that State will vote in November. Then unless prompt action is taken once we would have been cheated with the mere announcement that the session would be called. Now everything except politics is adjourned as far as the women of this convention are concerned, and they are content to leave first, feathers and frivolity to the visitors, who are making the city gay with their red caps as they flock homeward from their recent meeting in Portland.

Tenants in Quincy Get Support of Council

The Quincy City Council unanimously adopted a resolution presented by the Quincy Tenants Association requesting the United States Housing Corporation to postpone for one year the widely advertised sale of homes tenanted by nearly 400 Fore River Shipyard workers at Quincy Point.

The son of the City Council was sought by the committee of the association following a mass meeting in Hancock Hall and an overflow meeting in the square at Quincy Point, following upon the suggestion of State Senator David I. Walsh, one of the principal speakers, marched to City Hall where the council was in session.

LIKE YEAR'S DELAY.

The resolution was in effect a protest against the sale of the homes and also embodied a request that the postponement be granted for a year, sale for at least one year in order to give the tenants who did not care to purchase their homes a chance to seek other homes.

Senator McIntosh, addressing the overflow meeting, attacked the Massachusetts Congressmen for failing to give the housing bill asked by the United States Housing Corporation sufficient attention. He said that had this done so the present housing conditions on Quincy Point would not have resulted.

W. K. Hanscomb, president, and E. E. Williams, secretary of the association addressed the meeting in Hancock Hall.

S. Wiley Wakeman, general manager of the Fore River shipbuilding interests, said today that he had not received a letter to Secretary Wing, but that he would see him.

This will mean practically evicting and throwing into the streets 400 families.

FORE RIVER MANAGER PROTESTS

That service department had made diligent search for all the vacant and available houses into which these families could be moved.

"I can personally assure you that it is impossible to secure a tenement in Quincy and practically impossible to secure any houses within a ten-cent fare limit of Quincy.

"This sale means that we are going to lose a large number of experienced employees, and we are asked to wait for at least three years on government contracts. It will mean a serious handicap to us and to the government to lose these men.

"It seems entirely unfair that because of the serious shortage of housing facilities at this time these houses should be sold and the tenants turned out when the need at the present time is greater than when the houses were built."

PICKFORD CASE BAPTIST ISSUE

Buffalo, N. Y., June 29.—That the Northern Baptist convention may go on record as being opposed to the marriage of divorced persons by refusing to elect the Rev. J. W. The Rev. Mr. Brougher officiated at the marriage of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford. Although their names were not mentioned on the convention floor, the marriage was indirectly made an issue.

The other candidates named on the ticket headed by Ernest L. Tustin, of Philadelphia, were unopposed.

SEIZED MILLION IN LIQUORS

Federal Agents Get 35,000 Gallons in New England Since January 1

over 35,000 gallons of whiskey, "jakey" and alcohol, valued at $1,- 000,000, have been seized since Janu- ary 1 by federal prohibition agents under the supervision of William J. McCarthy, government prohibition enforcement agent of New England. This haul was the result of more than 140 raids and does not include thou- sands of gallons of illicit beer.

Much of the 35,000 gallons is at present in eight Boston warehouses under guard, awaiting removal to Washington. The efforts of the 200 New England operators were mostly centered in the manufacturing cities such as Lowell, New Bedford, Law- rence, Holyoke, Chicopee and Spring- field, where it was revealed that the foreign element were particularly adept in making illicit liquors.

Mr. McCarthy in a statement de- clared that the local office is con- centrating efforts to check the manu- facture of illicit whiskey and other liquors, also the wholesale trade in the same by the offenders, not caring to arrest or prosecute the petty of- fender who may pack a cherished quart in his suitcase.

BIRD STREET CROSSING TO BE WIPED OUT

McAdoo Is "Liberal and Progressive"

New York, June 29.—While Democratic politics simmer in San Francisco, William Gibbs McAdoo, one of the leaders among the prospective candidates for the presidential nomination, is spending his days quietly upon a secluded country estate at Huntington, Long Island, calmly awaiting news from the front.

While Mr. McAdoo refuses to discuss politics and declares he is not directly in touch with the Democratic convention, his friends emphatically assert that he will accept the nomination if it comes to him.

Mr. McAdoo went on record for "liberal and progressive policies" in a letter to John J. Mitchell, secretary of the Metal Trades Council of the New York district, which was made public today.

"It is only that party which has the courage to declare explicitly for liberal and progressive policies and the candidate who is fearless enough to espouse them vigorously that will command the respect and secure the votes of a majority of our countrymen in the forthcoming election," wrote Mr. McAdoo.

BITTER PILL FOR DE VALERA

Irish Leader Expresses Deep Disappointment at Cummings' Address

By CHARLES O. POWER.

San Francisco, Cal., June 29.—This Democratic national convention is volcanic. The leaders fear an eruption. There are rumblings under the surface everywhere, and in some places they are violent.

The keynote speeches were notices served upon the delegates that nothing but the treaty and League of Nations covenant submitted by President Wilson shall be adopted. On that point Temporary Chairman Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, also chairman of the national committee, spoke as if inspired by President Wilson himself. And not much less emphatic was J. Bruce Kremer of Montana.

LODGE A "SHACK NUMBER."

For oratory the opening day of the Democrats had it all over the Republicans. For stage presence, acting and eloquence, Bruce Kremer is several classes ahead of Will Hays, who was the first star performer at Chicago. As a keynoter Henry Cabot Lodge is a "shack number" compared with the sturdy and brilliant Cummings.

Two of the three administration speeches have been made under the most favorable auspices possible. There will be another eulogy of the President today, when Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, an administration leader, speaks with the final authority of the permanent chairman. Then will come the free-for-all race in oratory. After Robinson the floor gates will open.

It is in the air that Bryan has a speech up his sleeve on the treaty question.

It is a sure thing that he will break loose if there is a straddle on the real issue. Senator David Walsh will fight if the treaty plank is one of sophistry or one that commits the country and the party to a policy of internationalism. He will battle for one that protects the prestige and the institutions of this country and lends encouragement to all peoples for the right of self determination of the question of government.

FIGHT OVER REED SURE.

Whichever way the case of Senator Reed of Missouri is settled by the committee on credentials, there will be a fight about it in the convention.

In his speech yesterday, Chairman Cummings said that the Republican platform gives "no message of hope for Ireland." There was some applause, but not much. The anxious friends of Ireland in the committees were evidently following him closely to see what he would hold out for Ireland. He later, explaining the Wilson draft of the treaty, he declared it would be a godsend to oppressed peoples.

Representative Thomas E. Niland of South Boston wanted something more definite that that statement and he shouted "What about Ireland?" Cummings said he would come to that later.

Trembling with emotion, a woman in the centre of the convention jumped to her feet and demanded justice for Ireland.

DE VALERA DISAPPOINTED.

Eamon De Valera, President of the Republic of Ireland, was disappointed in the Cummings speech, so far as related to the treaty and the League of Nations. He frankly said that the situation was discouraging from the standpoint of the oppressed Irish people, that they would view with fear the sign to despair as an indorsement of the principle of the League of Nations.

Administration spokesmen were saying last night that the Cummings and Kremer speeches had won a safe majority in the administration program. Even Dr. John W. Coughlin, national committeeman from Massachusetts, was quoted as having said so.

When the Wilson ovation was in order or better still, insofar as Delegate Lyman of Springfield bore the standard of the Massachusetts bunch, he was not content with him. After making the route he was joined by Delegate John H. Backus of New Bedford and both of them bore it in the rear of the hall where the women alternates from the State were seated.

Turning toward the chairman and raising his arm, Backus tried to get attention but the chairman would not notice him. Then Backus called out three cheers for the President and the women did the best they could under the circumstances.

INVITED TO SPEAK.

Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald of Boston announces that she has been requested to make a speech seconding the nomination of Senator Owen of Oklahoma. She will consult with other members of the delegation as to the propriety of so doing. In order to make it some delegate would have to surrender his seat temporarily to her.

It is said that no further action will be taken on her nomination as an associate member of the national committee until the new committeeman, Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, has a chance to get his bearings.

THIEVES REAPING FINE HARVEST IN CHELSEA

Pickpockets, flat prowlers and factory thieves are again at work in Chelsea, according to reports received by the police. A gold watch and chain and a $10 goldpiece were stolen from the apartments of Joseph Pratt at No. 101 Winnisimmet street, Chelsea. Jacob Gould of No. 99 Atlantic avenue, Beachmont, reported to the police that his pockets were picked of $87 while passing through Chelsea square on an electric car. John Hearon of No. 55 Maverick street, East Boston, reported the loss of a gold watch valued at $10 while he was at work in a Chelsea shoe factory.

$6,000 MORE ALLOTTED MAYOR'S HOUSING BOARD

The city Council has appropriated $6,000 additional to be expended by the Mayor's rent and housing committee for the hearing of complaints and disputes on the part of tenants and landlords and also for a general study of the housing situation in Greater Boston.

ARMY AIRMAN BREAKS PARACHUTE RECORD

Dayton, O., June 29.—What is believed to be a new record in a parachute descent of nearly four miles was made by Sergeant Bottrell of McCook Field. At an altitude of 19,500 feet, the daring aviator climbed out on the fuselage and made his jump. The wind caught the parachute and pulled him through the tail of the machine, tearing off the rudder. Bottrelle landed near Germantown, ten miles west of this place. His parachute was ripped where it caught on the tail wires of the plane, which landed safely. He received bruises of the muscles of the arm and strained the ligaments. The plane was piloted by Sergeant Madan.

TAKEN FOR MURDER AFTER 20 YEARS

Chicago, June 29.—Twenty years after the murder of his sweetheart, Hattie Strogie, of Rayville, La., of which he stands accused, Daniel Wright, forty-seven years old, was arrested here when a former resident of Rayville, who knew him, notified the police. He was turned over to Sheriff Frank Cooper of Richland County, Louisiana.

How Nuxated Iron Feeds The Blood

Helps Restore Wasted Tissues and Give Increased Strength, Power and Endurance

"Without iron there can be no strong, sturdy men, or healthy rosy-cheeked women," says Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author. Iron is red blood food, and when the iron in your blood runs low your red blood corpuscles die by millions, the strength goes from your body, the color from your face—that mirror of yourself—and your every action lacks in power.

Actual blood tests show that a tremendously large number of people who are weak and ill lack iron in their blood and that they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Iron deficiency paralyzes healthy, forceful action, pulls down the whole organism and weakens the entire system. A pale face, a nervous irritable disposition, a lack of strength and endurance and the inability to cope with the strong vigorous folks in the race of life—these are the sort of warning signals that Nature gives when the blood is getting thin, pale, weak and literally starving for want of iron.

THE TEST THAT TELLS

If you are not sure of your condition, go to your doctor and have him take your blood count and see where you stand or else make the following test yourself: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Then take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

By enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, Nuxated Iron strengthens the entire human machine wonderfully and helps to instill new energy and power into the whole system.

Unlike the older forms of inorganic iron products Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. "You now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong lustrous hair. No gray hairs shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair tonics, lotions, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian named Nah-Tah-Wah-Nah-Tah-Wah, that he assevrated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and now my hair is as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the stimulating effect of the mysterious formula I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious salve, now called Nokalo, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair had fallen out. Even in cases of alopecia areata or certain other hair of scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otte reports: "After my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used Nokalo and that was recommended but was always disappointed until at last I commenced using Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered over by a growth of hair about three inches." B. W. Mitchell reports: "I had worn completely bald on top which hair is now growing since I used Nokalo." Mrs. Martin Mayer reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing all over the place that was bald." Many more splendid reports from satisfied users.

For women's hair.

Watch for Auto on Right Is Rule Under New Crossing Law

The new law for right-of-way at street crossings is exemplified plainly in this photograph. As shown here car "B" has the right-of-way and car "A" must stop to allow the other car to pass. Car "B," it is seen, is approaching from the right of the driver of car "A," hence, under the new rule, it has the preference.

There is but one thing for motorists to remember in the new right-of-way law that went into effect today. That is—the autoist who approaches an intersecting street to find another machine coming toward the crossing from his right, must stop. The car from his right has the right of way.

This simple rule, it is believed, will considerably lessen the number of accidents which occur at intersecting streets, due mostly to lack of patience on the part of drivers who have wanted the "other fellow" to do the waiting.

The law is exemplified in the accompanying illustration.

In this case car B has the right of way and car A must stop to allow the other car to pass.

Car B, it will be noticed, is approaching from the right of the driver of car A, hence, under the new regulation, it is given preference.

Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of the division of highways of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, is of the opinion that the autoists will find the law an easy one to observe. At first, he states, it may be somewhat confusing to the driver, but after a few days' caution it will become second nature to watch for "the machine on the right."

Women in Famished Austria Beautifying

New York, June 29.—Wake up, America.

The women of Austria and Poland, despite famine and high prices never dreamed of in the United States, have left the famous population on this side of the Atlantic far in the rear in beauty aids, according to Mme. Eleanor, a beauty expert, who has arrived here, she said.

"The women of Vienna and Poland are coloring their faces and portions exposed by decolleté dress. The color is brown.

"Because of the shortness of bathing suits, fat women are seeking to reduce the size of their legs and are greasing artificial dimples on their knees."

In Paris the fashionable women are seeking a pink and white complexion.

SOLDIER STARTS LAWSUIT TO PROVE HE IS ALIVE

Geneva, June 26.—It is not often that a man has the chance to sign his own death certificate, but this has happened to a French soldier named Breget, of Belfort, who although in good health has been officially reported as "missing" and then as "killed."

He recently received a visit from a gendarme who asked him if he were Breget, and, being told "yes," asked him to sign his name. The gendarme left and Breget then examined the folded paper and discovered it was his death certificate.

Breget has begun what will probably prove to be a long legal process to prove that he is still alive.

TOLD TO IGNORE RENT DEMANDS

Lawrence Tenants Are Upheld Against Landlords by Mayor's Committee

Lawrence, June 29.—Twenty-four tenants of Isadore Gordon, a large holder of real estate here, who protested to the recently appointed rent committee of increases in rent from $4.25 to $6.25 per week, today were instructed by the committee to pay no attention to the demand on the grounds that the increase was excessive.

The committee stated the property in question after protests had been received. They found that conditions did not warrant the increase. Notices have been given to a number of the tenants to vacate within thirty days.

In other cases of complaint against landlords, with the exception of one case, the board found the rates to be reasonable.

David O'Brien of No. 154 Oxford street, complained that his rent had been increased from $3 to $4 and was now $7 per week. The board ruled the increase to be excessive.

Mrs. Cora Helander, a widow with five children, of No. 7 Alden court, complained that J. Marquis, the owner, had increased her rent from $7 to $8.50 a week, where last May she had been paying but $4.50. She was instructed by the board not to pay more than $7.

In the case of Joseph Azzar, Tremont street and Broadway, the board ruled that the increase from $6 to $8 a week was too much and instructed him to pay not more than $7.50.

A number of landlords, summoned before the committee, attempted to show that through increased expense in maintaining property their total net profits did not exceed 2 per cent.

The committee recently was appointed by Mayor William P. White to investigate the rent and housing conditions.

700 MACHINISTS STRIKE IN PAWTUCKET PLANT

Pawtucket, R. I., June 29.—When their demand for a 15 per cent increase in wages was refused, 700 machinists employed at the H. & B. American Machine Company walked out. Officials at the plant state that wage increases were granted last February. The strikers claim that their compensation is no higher than that of laborers employed by the concern. Chief of Police Charles E. Hill has refused the strikers permission to hold open air meetings in the vicinity of the plant.

Subpoena Galli-Curci at New York Pier

New York, June 28.—Amelita Galli-Curci, operatic nightingale, was whisked her voyage by a host of friends and admirers. In the throng there were also two men in business suit and of very businesslike manners. One was Howard Strong, a detective, who used her in obtaining her divorce in Chicago last January.

He presented a summons in an action to recover $127 balance due him for professional services. Galli-Curci paid and Strong said he would drop the summons service.

The second unexpected visitor was a subpoena server who brought a summons in a suit brought by Charles L. Wagner, the singer's manager for six years. Wagner demands $250,000 of his commissions on a contract which, he claims, was drawn November 30, 1918, to run five years. He was to get 25 per cent of the singer's earnings in opera and concert work.

QUERIES FATHER OF 7 CHILDREN

Johnson, Suing for $50,000, Implies Haus Openly Courted His Wife

Gloucester, June 29.—Walter H. Johnson, Boston salesman, has filed a series of interrogatories against Loren H. Haus, wealthy Gloucester lumber dealer, whom he is suing for $50,000 for alleged alienation of Mrs. Johnson's affections.

In these interrogatories, filed in Essex County Superior court, Mr. Johnson implies that the lumber dealer, father of seven children, openly courted Mrs. Johnson.

He asks concerning theatre parties and late suppers, the writing of impassioned love letters and whether Haus and Mrs. Johnson ever registered at hotels as man and wife.

Some of the questions follow:

"Were you not discovered in company with Catherine J. Johnson at the Lombardy Inn in 1917 by your brother-in-law, Benjamin Smith, head of the Gorton-Pew Fisheries and prominent Gloucester business man?

"Did you not at that time resign as warden in the Episcopal Church rather than give up the company of the said Catherine Johnson?

"On July 22, 1918, did you come to Boston with Catherine Johnson and register at the Lombardy Inn with her as man and wife?

"Did you ever write any letters to Catherine Johnson?

"Did you give Catherine Johnson money to go to Hampton Beach, N. H., the Summer of 1918?

"Did you visit her there?"

The defendant has refused to answer most of the questions, except in court.

Johnson has asked for a jury trial, and a change of venue to Suffolk county.

DEMPSEY RUSHING EAST IN EFFORT TO CORNER CARPENTIER

CHAMPION ANXIOUS TO FIGHT

Kearns Hints That French Boxer Is Dodging in Rush to Return Home

New York, June 29.—Jack Dempsey is speeding Eastward today with his manager, Jack Kearns, to meet Georges Carpentier and Francois Descamps before they sail away to Europe.

The champion stands ready to sign articles and post a forfeit at once, and if Carpentier is sincere in his much advertised quest of the title he will have an opportunity to prove it.

Dempsey and Kearns will arrive here not later than July 7. Carpentier is scheduled to sail for France, July 10. Dempsey wants action, and if Georges the fans may say about it there will be plenty of time for the two champions to get together.

Dempsey's stand was outlined today in the following telegram from Kearns at Denver:

"Failing to hear from Georges Carpentier with regard to the signing of articles, Jack Dempsey and myself are hurrying Eastward to meet the Frenchman and his manager before they sail for Europe.

"We are prepared to sign articles and post a forfeit, and we will insist that Carpentier sign up before sailing.

"If Carpentier came to America to fight Dempsey he should sign up at once. We are ready to fight at any time. We accepted Carpentier's challenge more than a week ago and gave him a week to reply to our answer.

"Since then we haven't heard a word from the Frenchman or his manager.

"Mr. Richardson is to meet Descamps in New York, have a personal interview and definitely arrange the big bout. We will be in Boston not later than July 7, which will give us plenty of time to talk business.

"Dempsey is going to be a fighting champion from now on. I'm very frank to say that the continental champion be the first to meet Jack, and Jack will gladly accommodate him.

"If he refuses, Dempsey will be forced to consider some of his many offers to fight other opponents. The champion is now close to fighting trim and don't be surprised to see him in action soon."

He fought Adams a few weeks ago at the club and the fight was a hot-to-hot affair all of the way.

Adams has eleven consecutive K. O.'s to his credit. Costello broke his string of one-punch wins.

JUNIOR GOLFERS TEE OFF TODAY

Sixty-Five Ambitious Youngsters Take Part in Medal Round at Oakley

By TOM POWER.

The qualifying round of the Massachusetts State junior golf championship got under way when Francis Holden of Newtonville and James Walsh of Brookline High teed off at the Oakley Country Club early today. Sixty-five boys in all took part in the big, the largest number ever entered in the tournament.

The thirty-two low scorers qualified for the first round of match play, which will start tomorrow.

Eddie Lowery, the present title holder, was on hand to defend his laurels. He played around with F. P. Cutler, Jr., of Merrimac Hall.

George Aulbach of Scarboro Club, Clark Hodder of the Commonwealth Club and several other prominent junior golfers, also started in the qualifying round. Aulbach at the Belmont Spring open tournament played through a fast field to the final bracket with Fred Wyeth, whom he carried to the 17th green before he lost the match. Clark Hodder in the recent open tournament at the Commonwealth Club lead the field of amateurs with a score of 153 for 72 holes of medal play.

Kahanamoku Breaks Record

Alameda, Cal., June 29.—Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu broke the world's record of one minute, one second, for the 100-metre swim, free style, established by Norman Ross. The Hawaiian covered the distance in one minute, one-fifth second.

"You Tell 'Em" Is Latest in Sport

"You tell 'em." Writing catchy "you tell 'em" phrases is just as cooling as it is to take a dip in your favorite part of the ocean, or the family bath tub if you don't happen to own a section of that prohibitionists' swimming pool. Tad invented this novel Summer sport and 'tis spread through this land of the free and home of the brave like measles in a kindergarten class. Take the family pen in hand and write your choice bit of humor. Then let Uncle Sam take it to the "You Tell 'Em" Editor, Boston American, No. 89 Summer street, Boston.

TAD'S TIDBITS

KILBANE THE LAST OF THE OLD GUARD.

Johnny Kilbane has retired. John feels that he has done his bit and will hunt up the old carpet slippers, light the corncob pipe and spend his evenings reading the box scores.

John suggests holding a featherweight tourney with eight of the best leathers entered. He wants to referee all the bouts and hand his title to the boy he thinks is the best.

Kilbane has been featherweight champion since 1912. Quite a stretch, isn't it? He is about as clean a title holder as we have ever seen. He has always fought on the level, never sidestepped an opponent, and never was mixed up in brawls like many other champs have been.

Kilbane has been many a champion pass on, too. Since he won his title the following chumps have been dethroned:

Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Ted Lewis, Al McCoy, Mike O'Dowd, Freddie Welsh and Kid Williams.

Retire if you like, Johnny. You've been a credit to your profession.

Canada Cal's Chirp.

Wilson to Give O'Dowd Return Battle

New York, June 29.—Johnny Wilson, recent winner of the world's middleweight title, is conducting himself like one of the old-time champions. He announces that he is not only ready and willing to meet all comers in his division, but is anxious to do so.

In talking fight with Dave Mackay, manager of the Newark Sportsmen's Club, where Wilson will defend his honors against Soldier Bartfield on Thursday night, the new king of the middleweights asked what the prospects were for clinching a few more bouts in Newark. He told Mackay that he would meet any men the club desired him to and that if Mike O'Dowd, from whom he won the title, wanted a return engagement to sign him up at once.

He is particularly anxious to dispel the impression that having defeated O'Dowd once he is content to rest upon his laurels and not jeopardize them in a return engagement.

"Can you get O'Dowd for me?" Wilson asked Mackay. "He is one fellow I would like to meet. Boxing fans here are all wrong in thinking that I am the one who is sidestepping the promised return match. I beat him easily in Boston, and can do so again any time, any place or fame by decisively defeating Bartfield. I'll box at your field. Wilson apparently is sincere in his efforts to get a battle.

Mackay is now negotiating with Mullins. If he can sign O'Dowd he will stage the match within the next month. Promoter Ping Wiseup adds to his ever-increasing fistic activities for another chance, you will have trouble getting O'Dowd to enter the ring against me."

BUSY HOMESTAY FOR RED SOX

Barrow Clan and Senators in Six-Game Series—Final in N. Y. Today

New York, June 29.—The Red Sox and the Yankees spent a day in idleness, and the rest did both teams a world of good, to judge by the "zing" they showed in the ultimate tilt of the present series. Tonight the Barrow clan will hike home for a short stay taking on the Senators the last four days of the week. The Sox play two tomorrow, starting at 1:30, and two on Saturday, starting at 1 o'clock.

The Red Sox have been roughly used here, but it is rather tough on a crippled team to take on the two leading pennant contenders in succession. The Sox took the first game in Cleveland and the opener here, but have been beaten in their other starts.

Sam Jones was elected to do the honors in the first final game, while Hugging stood ready to send in Ernshore, now rated as a second-string pitcher, to get his former teammates back.

Just now the Yanks are rather badly off for pitchers. Shawkey and Mogridge are laid up for repairs, Jones' former with a wrenched back and Pipp latter with a twisted ankle. Quinn has been badly overworked and is beginning to show signs of strain. Hasn has pitched in three of the last four games in which the Yanks have participated, which goes to show that the New Yorkers are hard put to win games, despite their heavy artillery.

BROTHER BILL ON MARTIN'S TRAIL

N. E. Feather Champion Out to Avenge Kayo of Mickey Fitzsimmons Thursday

By JACK CONWAY.

Billy Fitzsimmons, New England featherweight champion, is going to make an effort to avenge the defeat of his brother Mickey when he clashes with Vincent Martin of Cambridge in a twelve-round bout at the Cadet room A. A. of Quincy Thursday night.

Be it known that Mickey was knocked out by Martin at the Suffolk Club last Winter. Now Brother Bill is out to prove that Martin is a false alarm as a ring star.

All you have to do is to glance at Billy's record and you are convinced that he will probably dispose of his opponent Thursday night. A couple of months ago at Marlboro Fitzsimmons outboxed Joe Lynch of New York, which is quite a feat. Then he hopped down to the Commercial Club and won the featherweight championship of New England by beating Bobby Josephs. Martin can punch, but Fitzsimmons is one of those boxers who usually are able to dispose of the hard hitting combo.

Perry's Boxers Ready for Action in Ring

George Perry called at this office and asked us to tell the world that Bert Jones, 128 pounds; Joe Chick, 140 pounds, and Tommy Verbiery, 125 pounds, are prepared to meet any boxers of their respective weights in this part of the country.

Jones did a sparkling come-back at Worcester the other night, stopping Jimmy Brown of Newport in three rounds. They don't come much better than Jones when he's right. Perry says that Jones is going on high once more.

Chick has been training at Gloucester and is ready to enter the ring with any ambitious son of swat. As for Corbiery, he is of the opinion he can beat a whole lot of the local lightweights when bashfully admit they possess ring class.

Callahan Favors Flynn to Win Over Kloby

Paddy Flynn, Everett welterweight, is training at Bedford for his twelve-round little bout with Young Kloby which will be staged at the open-air arena of the Club of Lawrence Saturday afternoon. Frankie Callahan, one of the world's greatest boxing instructors, is the sparring partner to Flynn.

"I have hit Flynn with everything I have and can't even slow him up," said Callahan. "So what chance will Young Kloby have with that wallop punch? I consider Flynn the best prospect in the welterweight class and he will be heard from plenty along in years and will soon have to give way to a younger set. Flynn is the class to outboss the welterweight champion Jack Britton and I look for a battle for the ages when Flynn and Kloby mix. While to the fans and myself I am hoping all sorts of challenges at O'Neil."

Strong Card Arranged for Lynn Club.

Jack Murphy has completed the card for the show of the Casino A. C. of Lynn Thursday night. There will be two eight-round matches besides the twelve-session go with Kloby. Bill McFarland of the North End in a twelve-round bout at the Commercial Club, Saturday night. McFarland has been working out with Johnny Wilson and is of the opinion he will be ready to challenge the conqueror of Kayo Moggsy.

PACED STARS IN HOUR RACE

Carman, Madonna, Lavalade and Colombatto in Big Feature at Revere

Colombatto, the Italian motor-paced champion, who annexed all the fancy ribbons that Carman did not capture, lost no time in getting to this country in an effort to meet the American champion, and will make his first appearance at the new Revere cycle track tomorrow night in a one hour motor-paced race with Carman, Madonna and Lavalade.

Colombatto has been here before, and since he showed up well in his few starts it was not until his return to Europe that he gave promise of being a first-string rider. It is claimed that he tried several times to meet Carman in Paris, but was unsuccessful, and that his main object in coming here again is to meet the American rider in a match for the international title.

Manager Butler has offered a cash prize to the rider who breaks the world record tomorrow night, and as the right conditions are there it should be an easy matter, as the new oval is claimed to be the fastest in the country.

The amateurs and professionals will also have their regular card of races.

BRAVES GOING ON HIGH AGAIN

Stallings Has New Hope of Bringing Team Over the Top

The Braves are flying again toward the roof of the National League. They have found their kick, and have a flock of pitchers winning more regularly than anybody should these hot days. They have walked away with four consecutive games, have won six out of the last eight. Doing that, they have battled two of the real contenders in the National League.

Those Cardinals were lucky to get one game out of three here. The Redlegs have dropped four in a row and are on hand today for the ultimate joust of the series. Beating the Redlegs hasn't been any part of a soft snap, but the Braves have discovered a wallop toward the end, and with the aid of the old-fashioned mid-July package.

The Braves come through at the finish, which is the seat of a real ball club, and is an announcement that Boston will be in the fighting for the honors when far October swings across the National League horizon.

Braves Pitchers Working Well Just Now

Manager Stallings has all his pitchers working well now. He hasn't many, but those on hand are ready to go out and grab off a ball game any time. They know that if they pitch fair baseball, the rest of the outfit will deliver when the crisis arrives.

Scott, Billington, Oeschger and McQuillan have returned to the victory call. R. Rudolph is prepared to follow their lead. Give Stallings five pitchers in any race, and he will figure he has them now, and in addition has a team that is only a couple of aches away from the pace.

Unless there's another terrific slump, the Braves will depart for their next road trip the most feared aggregation of all contenders. As we remarked before, they have the kick at the finish, and that's what counts in the bitterly fought games of the present season.

After today's game, the Braves vanish from our midst until Monday, when they return to battle the Dodgers, Leo Dixon and Tom Clarke at Spheramore of the Wilbertrobbies in these parts.

When you consider what has happened to the invaders hereabouts, you can imagine that Manager Wilbert and his gang are ready to leave. Big Jack Scott was in line to toss today, with Clarke slated to bring the enemy back to the winning habit.

JAPANESE OLYMPIC TEAM ENTERS K. OF C. GAMES

New York, June 29.—Harvey Cohn, the former Olympic athlete and college coach, who is directing the training of the Japanese team for the Japanese Olympic team now in this city, en route to Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium, has entered the full team in the athletics scheduled under the auspices of the Assumption Council, K. of C. at Richmond, S. I., on Monday afternoon, July 5. The famous sixteen-year-old Marathon runner will compete in the 440 and one-half mile road race which will feature the Staten Island meet.

HARVARD FIRST SACKER TO JOIN THE ATHLETICS

Harwich, June 29.—Lucius P. "Cy" Jones, first baseman of the Harvard varsity nine, left here today for Philadelphia where he will join the Athletics.

Intercollegiate Tennis

Haverford, Pa., June 29.—Captain Leon de Tarenne of the Harvard tennis team and R. F. Johnson and A. R. Fenno, also of Harvard were victorious in the first round of the Intercollegiate tennis championship. The other first round winners were: E. M. Barkis, Kenneth Hawke, A. A. Wilder and L. Wray of Yale; F. L. Goldsborough of Pennsylvania and Hamilton Kerr of California. Wilder also won a second round match.

Tunney Kayos Anderson

Jersey City, N. J., June 29.—Gene Tunney, light-heavyweight champion of the A. E. F., knocked out Ole Anderson of Tacoma, Wash., in the third round. Augie Ratner outfought Marvin Cross in twelve rounds.

What Has Happened So Far

The father of little Stephanie Quest, drowned by his family, becoming a drug addict, pays no attention to the child. Her mother sinks with the father, and the girl is left to wander the streets without knowing the meaning of the word home. She is taken in by a poor woman, who already has a large family. Jim Cleland, son of John Cleland, millionaire art collector, goes home to New York from school for the Christmas holidays. They have a happy time together, and the father sees the lad off for school again. Then he reads of some cases of needy children and writes his check in aid of one.

CHAPTER II.—Continued

"THE child will be beside herself with joy when she gets word from us that she need not lose the only home and the only friends she has ever known. Thank you—for little Stephanie Quest."

A Sad Story

"What did the other people do to her?" inquired John Cleland, buttoning his gloves and still mowing absently at nothing.

"What people?"

"The ones who—her parents, I mean. What was it they did to her?"

"They were dreadfully inhuman"—

"What did they do to the child? Do you know?"

"Yes, I know, Mr. Cleland. They beat her mercilessly when they happened to be crazed by drugs; they neglected her when sober. The little thing was a mass of cuts and sores and bruises when we investigated her case; two of her ribs had been broken, somehow or other, and were not yet healed"—

"Oh, Lord!" he interrupted sharply. "That's enough of such devilish detail—— I beg your pardon, but such things annoy me. Also I've some business that's waiting—or pleasure, which ever you choose to call it——" He glanced at his watch, thinking of the exhibition at Christensen's, and the several rival and hawk-like amateurs who certainly would be prowling around there, deriding him for his absence and looking for loot.

"Where does that child live?" he added carelessly, buttoning his overcoat.

The capable young woman, who had been regarding him with suppressed amusement, wrote out the address on a pad torn off the leaf and handed it to him.

"In case you ever become curious to see little Stephanie Quest, whom you have aided so generously——" she explained.

Cleland, recollecting with increasing annoyance that he had three hundred dollars less in waste on Christensen than he had that morning, muttered the polite formality of leave-taking required of him and bowed himself out, carrying the slip of paper in his gloved fingers, extended as though he were looking for a place to drop it.

Falling Snow.

Down the street, where his car stood, the sidewalks were slowly whitening under leisurely falling snowflakes. The asphalt already was a slippery mess.

"Where's that?" he demanded peevishly, shoving the slip of paper at his chauffeur. "Do you know?"

"I can find it, sir."

"All right," snapped John Cleland.

He stepped into the little coupé and settled his fur coat with a grunt. Then he hunched himself up in the corner and perked the fur robe over his knees, muttering. Thoughts of his wife, of his son, had been busily persistent that morning. Never before had he felt actually old—he was only fifty-odd. Never before had he felt himself so alone, so utterly solitary. Never had he so needed the comradeship of his only son.

He had relapsed into a sort of grim, unhappy lethargy, haunted by memories of his baby days, when the car stopped in the tenement-lined street, swarming with pushcarts and children.

The damp, rank stench of the unwashed smote him as he stepped out and entered the dirty hallway, set with bells and letter boxes and littered with debris and filthy melting snow.

The place was certainly vile enough. A deformed woman with sore eyes directed him to the floor where the Schmidt family lived. On the landing he stumbled over several infants who were playing affectionately with a dead cat—probably the first substitute for a doll they had ever possessed. A fight in some room on the second floor arrested his attention, and he halted, alert and undecided, when the dim hallway resounded with screams of murder.

He Makes a Call

But a shatteredly young Woman who was passing explained very coolly that it was only "Schm Cassidys mixing in," and she went her way downstairs with her cracked pitcher, and he continued upward.

"Schmidt? In there," replied a small boy to his inquiry, and resumed his game of ball against the cracked plaster wall of the passage.

Answering his knock, a shapeless woman opened the door.

"Mrs. Schmidt?"

"Yes, sir"—swaying the string which alone kept up her skirt.

He explained briefly who he was, where he had been, what he had done through the United Charities for the child, Stephanie.

"I'd like to take a look at her," he added, "if it's perfectly convenient."

Mrs. Schmidt began to cry:

"Excuse me, sir, I'm so glad we can keep her—but the right thing to do for our own kids—but the poor little thing!—it seemed hard to send her away to a home"——She gouged out the tears absurdly with the back of a red, water-soaked hand.

"Steve! Here's a kind gentleman come to see you. Dry your hands, dearie, and come and thank him."

A gray-eyed child appeared—one of those slender little shapes, graceful in every unconscious movement of head and limbs. She was drying her thin red fingers on a bit of rag as she came forward, the steam of the washboiler still rising from her bare arms.

A loud, continuous noise arose in the further room, as though it were full of birds and animals fighting.

A Recommendation

For a moment the tension of inquiry and embarrassment between the three endured in silence; then as odd lot flesh seemed to envelop the heart of Cleland Senior—and something tense within his brain loosened, flooding his entire being with infinite relief. The man had been starving for a child, that was all. He had suddenly found her. But he didn't realize it even now.

There was a shaky chair in the exceedingly narrow but wretchedly furnished room. Cleland, Senior went over and seated himself gingerly.

"Well, Steve?" he said with a pleasant, humorous smile. But his voice was not quite steady.

"Thank the good kind gentleman," burst out Mrs. Schmidt, beginning to sob again, and to exude the wailing tears with the mottled backs of both fists. "You're going to stay with us dearie. They ain't no profession coming to take you to an institute for orphan little girls? The good, kind gentleman has given the money for it. Go down onto your knees and thank him, Steve!"

"Are you really going to keep me?" fattered the child. "Is it true?"

"Yes, my little, darling. I'll go a shaving me! Go and thank the good kind"——

"Let me talk to the child alone," interrupted Cleland dryly. "And shut the door, please!"—glancing into a farther room where a clothes-boiler steamed, onions were frying, five yelling children swarmed over every inch of furniture, a baby made apocryphal remarks from a home-made cradle, and a canary bird sang shrilly and incessantly.

Mrs. Schmidt retired, sobbing, extolling the goodness and kindness of John Cleland, who, endured it with patience until the closed door shut out eulogies, yells, canary and onions.

Then he said:

Profound Gratitude

"Steve, you need not thank me. Just shake hands with me. Will you? I—I like children."

The little girl, whose head was still turned toward the closed door behind which had disappeared the only woman who had ever been consistently kind to her, now looked around at this large, strange man, in his fur-lined coat, who sat there smiling at her in such friendly fashion.

When a Girl Marries

Romantic Serial by a Noted Author

By Ann Lisle

"I'll be game," I asserted, solemnly. "And please, dear, whatever you think, let me play this out on my own."

"Sure will," said Jim, in a tone of admiration, adding, with conviction so earnest it fairly startled me, "that don't ever call me a gambler again. The one honorable, no-goodness, all-wool-and-a-yard-wide gambler in this family is the lady of the house. You're a dead game sport, Anne. A real gambler.

"A gambler for high stakes. My hats off to you, Lady Roulette."

"I a gambler!" I gasped, remembering my father and so forgetting for the moment that I had won my point and Daisy's chance. "I a gambler! Oh, no—you're wrong, Jim."

But afterward I wondered if Jim really was on the right track about Nancy—and me.

Ankle Is Well

On the day after my ring disappeared, Dr. Kellogg pronounced my ankle well enough to come out of the bandage of adhesive plaster which had been strapping it ever since the accident. He brought along high flat heeled boots which he had procured for me, and lacing my ankle tightly into these, he ordered me to forsake all thoughts of invalidism and to trot about as usual.

I was tempted to rush right down to Haldane's, call for Daisy and take her out to lunch, but I managed to restrain myself. That would be the sort of thing Neal calls "crazy work." I must wait a day before starting my campaign, otherwise it would be too obvious.

Wanting a companion for my walk, I called Virginia on the telephone and asked her to go out with me. This was my first opportunity to speak to Virginia since the evening Jim had broken the news to her that the old Harrison block was about to be razed. At the first word of Virginia's reply I noticed the constraint in her voice.

"How fortunate that your ankle's quite well again, Anne. Don't overdo the walking, though. I'm not very keen for these new theories about wrenching sprains and torn ligaments."

"But will you come with me?" I persisted.

"I'm so sorry, Anne," replied Virginia smoothly, evading me. "But I'm preparing to go to the mountains for a week or so. A little change does all of us worlds of good, you know. And I've a lot of shopping, so I can't make it."

"We might take a taxi," I persisted, of course, I can't run the little car now and we couldn't talk with some one else in the driver's seat and one of us banished to the rumble. But a taxi we could visit between shops."

I smiled to myself at my own cleverness, but Virginia was not to be caught. She was, when I'd have been too thoroughly vexed by her first refusal to make any effort to force myself upon her, but now Virginia never daunted me. Under her coldness and pride I felt unhappiness and unfulfilled longings. And I'm never afraid of sad people—they may be reaching out for the very thing I have to give.

So even when Virginia would have none of me, I didn't feel snubbed and hurt, but sorry that she was all snarled up in her bitterness and misunderstanding.

"Really, dear, I must be rushing," she explained. "I have things to buy for Phoebe, and myself—tickets to get and reservations to telegraph for, so do forgive me if I'm abrupt and say good-bye."

I echoed the good-bye and turned from the phone to find Angy at my elbow.

"There's a maid here for you to intervene, ma'am," she said in her quaint jargon. "She says Mis' Conkie she sent her in respondence to Miss' Harrison what phone and ask her to tend to your needing help. Looks like a nice, respectful person, ma'am. But noways comparison to Bertha—she wore a jewel, ma'am."

The word jewel brought back my troubles with a jerk. But I had Angy bring the maid to me in the sitting-room, and though she was a sour-faced, middle-aged person, her splendid references and her honest eyes and manner made me engage Hedwig at once. Hardly was that transaction completed when the doorbell rang and Angy returned from answering its summons to announce Phoebe.

In great delight I hurried into the living room and there I found not only Phoebe, but a suitcase, hat-box and little patent-leather overnight bag.

"I've come to stay," Phoebe announced, smiling tentatively as if she'd be speaking or firm as the occasion dictated.

"You've come to stay?" I repeated, none too cordially. I fear that Virginia said you and she were going to the mountains."

"She's going," said Phoebe, setting her ripe young mouth into firm lines.

But "you" she said you were long with her." I said, groping for my cue.

"I'm not a child, to be dragged around wherever Virginia chooses. I told her I wouldn't go. I'll not be separated from Neal. Though that's just what she wants. She said I couldn't stay at home alone and unchaperoned—that it would look dreadful, under the circumstances."

"Vibrant With Feeling

Phoebe's slim young body was vibrant with feeling as she spoke but back of her emotions I sensed a will to match Virginia's Harrison pride. Harrison determination, Harrison insistence on self-expression. And I found myself praying—not Phoebe—but Virginia, caught in the meshes of her own feelings and between the equally strong feelings and warring personalities of her sister and brother.

"Dont you think there was something in Virginia's idea?" I asked with what I hoped was a soothing smile.

"Lois!" agreed Phoebe briefly. "So I came here. I'm simply chaperoned by my brother's house. If that's what Virginia wants. May I stay? Or are you so completely under Virginia's rule that you're going to turn me out?"

"Doesn't Virginia know you're here?" I asked.

"Not much!" laughed Phoebe. "I did a sneak the minute she got out of the apartment. Well, Annie, decide. Do I stay—or are you afraid that your Jeanie will never speak to you again if you harbor me?"

"I'll have Angy carry your things back to the guest room," I replied quietly, as quietly as if I weren't afraid of just what Phoebe suggested. "Then you must manage to make yourself comfortable without me. You see I've a very important errand that may take me all afternoon."

I wondered what Phoebe would say if she knew what my errand was.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Perkins

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate.

PERKINS

VARIATIONS—Pierce, Pierson, Peters, Parkins, Park, Parr.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Medieval English.

SOURCE—A given name.

PERKINS, with its many variations, is a surname which takes its origin from the given name of Peter.

In some of these names the Anglo-Saxon influence can be traced, and in others that of the Norman French, while in still others there is nothing to distinguish which influence predominated.

Peter, as a Christian name, was one of the most popular throughout Europe in the early days when the religious authority of Rome was recognized universally in all lands, owing to the prominence of St. Peter as the chief of the apostles and the founder of popes. Later, after the Reformation, it lost somewhat of its popularity, though it was far too widespread by that time to be eliminated as a given name. By this time, also, its crystallization into various family names was well under way.

Perkins (Peterkin's son) is stamped with Anglo-Saxon influence in the diminutive ending "kin." The "k" in other variations is a remnant of this. The softer Pierce shows the French influence, and finds somewhat of a counterpart in the names of Pierre and Perry. In many sections of England there is a tendency, and always has been, to pronounce "er" like "ar." Hence, Parkins, and finally Park, developed from Perkins.

"John Perkins, Senior," as the first Perkins to come to this country was called, claimed Newent, Gloucestershire, England, as his birthplace. On February 5, 1620, arriving on the good ship Lyon, he landed at Nantasket, making Boston the next day.

This first Perkins saw the initial Thanksgiving in America, as it was because of the arrival of the Lyon, with food from England, that the day of February 6, originally planned as a day of prayer and fasting, was set aside as a thanksgiving day, due to the arrival of food.

The first John Perkins brought his wife and five children to this country with him; a sixth child, Lydia, was born after they landed. The original Perkins quickly became a leading citizen in the new community, later moved to Ipswich, where he was voted lands, and given the privilege of being the only person to "take fowle with nets" on "Pullen Point" and "Noddles Island." His will, in which he bequeathes much land and livestock, shows that he was a substantial man in the community.

The first Perkins certainly believed in women's rights, for in his will he left the largest part of his property to his wife, and as much livestock to his daughters as to his sons.

SUMMER BEAUTY HINT

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. Am especially use shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and quickly removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthox (which you can get at any druggists), in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough to it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.

Twink

Washes and dyes at the same time

Clear, lovely colors for your faded blouses

Shades you could not get before

THERE is a new way to get just the lavender you have always wanted for your yellowed crepe de Chine. A new way to bring back that first delicate blue to your faded georgette.

You wash them in Twink—the new colored flakes. It gives them the very shades you have always wanted and never could get before!

Twink is made by a wonderful new method for producing colors that makes it possible to get more exquisite shades than have ever before been obtained.

When it was found that in this product any fashionable shade could be produced, the fashion color authorities of this country were asked to select the loveliest and smartest colors for this season. Twink was then made to match these colors.

The bright Twink flakes whip up into a gay tinted lather in boiling or very hot water. You toss in your blouse or your sheer frock, stir it about for a few minutes in the hot suds and squeeze the suds gently through the fabric again and again. Then give it a quick rinsing in cold waters and in a twinkling you have a new blouse, or a frock as lovely a color as the day you bought it.

The Twink colors turn out right every time, always clear and even, and so fast you can wash your blouse several times before you Twink it again.

Get today two or three packages of Twink and just follow the surprisingly easy directions that come with the package. Twink will not hurt any fabric that water alone will not hurt. Your druggist, the department stores, and the 5- and 10-cent stores have Twink. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

For restoring colors and for giving these new exquisite colors, Twink is as perfect as Lux is for fine laundering.

NO BIG RAISE IN R. R. PAY

Wage Board to Base Increase on Minimum of Maintenance of Way Men

By Universal Service.

Washington, June 29.—Blanket increases in railroad workers will not be granted by the Railroad Labor Board, according to information received here by labor officials.

A minimum wage scale for maintenance of way men will be established and from this all other scales will be computed, it was stated. Maintenance of way men are the most numerous and the lowest paid class of railway employes, and for this reason were selected, it was said.

The cost of living will be the basis on which the scale will be computed. The cause of the board's delay in reaching a decision, however, is said to be the inability of the members to agree as to what the basis of the minimum wage should be.

In their demands before the board, the maintenance of way men asked that the percentage of increase in the cost of living since January, 1913, when they presented their original demands, be added to the original increases asked. Up to May 1 last this increase was 12 per cent, they claimed.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely eradicate and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. A good way is to use a little mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and dissolves anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and has a fine, fluffy, lustrous, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement

Stocks Weak in New York; Call Money 9%; Trading Slack

EARS HAVE A CLEAR FIELD

o Support Offered by the Public, and Slight Pressure Causes Declines

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at on, although a little above the lowest. Rears had a little rally ld all the morning, there being no port for the market by the public d important interests being indif- vant apparently to the depreciation security listed.

It took but little selling pressure send prices off. Trading was ak, first hour transactions totaling s than 80,000 shares. The opening ll rather weak, and there was little change in foreign exchange otations.

Steels improved a little late in the orning, oils showed less rallying ower, motors were inactive, rails- nts were weak and rails receded.

IRREGULAR AT OPENING.

The market was irregular at the pening of business, the majority ling a lower level. Fluctuations re narrow and trading of small roportions. In fact, the market had ne characteristics which have fea- ured its openings of late. Buying rders showed a little strength. Har- st went down, declining three points within the first few minutes, but soon ne lost two. Delawares & Hud- on was the freshest rail, receding early four points. The poor state- ent as to earnings this year is the eason. Among other weak issues ere Mexican Petroleum and Inter- national Paper. General Motors was ctively dealt in, a number of other issues showed small gains But before the end of the first hour the arket was weak. Liberty bonds sold ower. The only traders were pro- ssionals. It is hard for the public realize much profit out of each hing. Only a languid interest in the tock Exchange convention is made, ated in financial districts.

MARKET IS MARKING TIME.

The market is said to be marking ime at present. Time is required, and in the stock loan market for stocks after close of business each day of the leading speculators are out of town and the small fry are being pinched by the high money rate. While the call rate was lowered to 7 per cent before the close of business today, the reduction had little significance. Banks have more money on hand and will sell on call at 7 per cent, the comptroller's call for condition, which is expected soon, will show a favorable picture, little optimism is expressed. There is curtailment in many lines of manufacturing, although the demand for increased pro- duction is still great. The end is not in sight as ever. This demand may not be insistent long, if the purchasing power of the people continues to fall off, time. There has been a change in the luxury demand and it is quite likely that retailers may find it even more difficult to get orders for their goods as time goes on, because they are chiefly concerned at present in getting cash for what they have on hand. How much money is now in more than the election is forecast. It may show in the reactions what buck- shot prospects are like.

Chain Stores Are Busy

Trade this year in chain stores has shown great expansion. For the first five months of 1920 the Woolworth Co. increased its sales $5,085,980, or 26.6 per cent, the United Cigar Stores a gain of $2,946,387, or 19.4 per cent, Kress stores $1,449,561, or 21.65 per cent, Kresge stores $1,000,000, or 15.4 per cent, Rexall $1,127,288, or 24.40 per cent. The combined sales of these five com- panies during the five months totaled $50,350,895, an increase of $14,991,138, or close to 30 per cent.

Harvey Crude Oil Dividend

The twenty-first regular monthly dividend of 1 per cent, was declared by the Harvey Crude Oil Company of which the Universal Petroleum Com- pany is now a part, to stock of record June 25, payable July 15.

OFFER COURSES IN SEAMANSHIP

Ambitious Youths Made Executives Following Study in State Nautical School

An opportunity for any intelligent, ambitious young man to acquire knowledge and instruction in seamanship, navigation, marine engineering and electricity, later being personally certain of advancement to the position of captain or executive aboard ship after a few years of faithful and meritorious service at sea, is offered by the Massachusetts Nautical School.

The school is a part of the educational system of Massachusetts, being maintained by the Department of Education of the Commonwealth in co-operation with the United States government. It was established nearly thirty years ago for the benefit of the young men of the State who desire to prepare for a seafaring life.

The school is maintained on board the U. S. S. Nantucket, a steamer equipped with all modern appliances. The course of study lasts two years. During the winter term the school work is carried on aboard the Nantucket while berthed in Boston.

Practical instruction is given during the five months' summer cruise of the ship. Among the ports included in the 1920 itinerary are St. Thomas, San Juan, Santiago, Guantanamo, Charleston, Norfolk, Washington, Annapolis, Halifax, N. S., Hamilton, Bermuda Harbor, Portland, Portsmouth and Nantucket.

An entrance examination will be held the latter part of September. Application blanks may be obtained from the Commissioner of the Massachusetts Nautical School at No. 2A Park street, Boston.

OVERLAND IN RECORD CLIMB UP MOUNTAIN

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

Berlin, N. H., June 28.—All records for automobile mountain climbing were broken here when a model four Overland ascended to the top of Mount Washington. The car was driven up the road, the last leg of the trip, and stopped at the door of the Tip Top House. This stunt was reported to be the first time any motor car had ever made the climb. The only climbing exhibition to parallel the model four Overland's was when the summit of Mount Mitchell was reached.

Parting on Ireland

And Some Other Things That May Interest You

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Some Republican newspapers are apologizing and explaining because Mr. Harding, their candidate, said something about Ireland. What he said wasn't much—merely that he had "a very sympathetic feeling for the movement to bring about the independence of Ireland."

The other day a speaker before the Baptists of America introduced a resolution calling upon the Government and conspicuous Americans generally to do nothing that might seem like interfering with the right of England to manage her own affairs—meaning her right to rule Ireland.

Some conspicuous Americans did several things, about 1776, to interfere with the right of England to manage what she thought were her own affairs.

If it was all right for Lord Chatham, the greatest man in England, to express sympathy with the Americans when they were fighting for their independence of England, why isn't it all right for an American like Harding to express in a general way "sympathy" with the effort of the Irish to do what the Americans did some years ago?

The fact is that there are in America a great many more snobs than there are in England. American snobbishness takes the form of admiring everything that England does.

The English themselves do not do that. It would surprise the American Anglomaniacs if they could read half a dozen assorted British publications for a week or ten days.

Mr. W. J. Bryan says there is no doubt at all that prohibition is here forever because women now vote. If any one thinks the verdict will be reversed with the women voting, he knows very little of woman's attitude on the question, says Mr. Bryan.

But woman occasionally has been known to reverse her attitude. It happened a long way from Nebraska, but Mr. Bryan might be interested in the New Zealand women who first voted to close saloons and then voted to open them, when they found that each of their husbands brought a whiskey bottle to the house, and once opened they drank it all.

"What is statesmanship?" That question is not often asked in this century. We ask men by whom the nation is managed what they think about beer and water, how many babies a mother should have. But to what extent, if any, they have ever studied statesmanship we never ask.

It is as though you hired a mechanic and asked him only if he knew how to milk a cow.

In his article written for the Hearst newspapers, Maximilian Harden, the German editor who openly fought the Kaiser throughout the war, gives a good definition of statesmanship.

Statecraft is the art of calculation of the sum of possibilities of what is practicable at a given point of time, and then carrying through today, with the full force of statesmanlike determination and against every opposition, the thing which could not have been done yesterday and can no longer be done tomorrow.

The man chosen President next time would do well to have that definition set in large type, posted up where he can see it when he wakes in the morning. Next to it he might have a map of the North American continent, keeping his mind on the fact that some day the opportunity is coming to do a favor to this continent and to the world by extending United States Government and United States territory south as far as the southern banks of the Panama Canal.

Mexicans need not be offended by this. Let them cross to Texas or California, formerly Mexican soil, and find what improvements have taken place.

Whatever happens in San Francisco between the wicked wets and the virtuous drys, the drys can find comfort in this fact. They have chosen Bryan on the dry side, Bourke Cockran on the wet side, to fight the battle. And both of these men are total abstainers. Bryan always was one. Cockran was not always. Bryan and the other drys have their advantage. They can begin by asking Cockran, "How does it happen that you drink only water?"

Before long the country will have to answer the question, "What is the matter with the railroads?" The answer will be, "Management and ownership by the Government."

We have learned that such management, at least in the hands of Democrats, is expensive. But better expensive management than none.

At present there is no railroad system in the United States. Private owners, that talked so much about their ability, have proved that they are simply not railroad men at all.

They offer as a partial excuse that a box car used to cost $1,000 and now costs $3,000. A locomotive that used to cost $27,000 costs now $75,000, etc., etc.

To that may be added, that spendthrift habits, taking out of railroads every dollar they earned in dividends instead of re-equipping and accumulating a surplus, compels them to borrow money at from 7 to 9 per cent. when they can get it.

The Administration that is worrying about Mesopotamia and not at all about the United States sets the example by borrowing money at six per cent. and allowing its Federal Reserve Bank to make usury respectable by fixing a seven per cent. rate.

This country needs a new kind of government. A Real Man in Washington would have a great opportunity.

Disappointing Census Figures

By S. E. KISER.

JOHN SMITH is very much cast down,
His pride is hurt, his words are sad;
The census takers gave our town
A deal that John insists was bad.
Our population, it appears,
Is less than that of Dinkeyville;
Our gain's been small in recent years,
But I am well contented still.

HERE one sweet little woman dwells,
Whose hair turned gray some years ago;
Another, too, there is who tells
Me much that I am glad to know,
And there's a tiny one who came
Last year to claim my tender care;
Our town is small, but all the same
It has attractions that are fair.

IF buildings that are high and streets
Where crowds of people surge and fret
Must bring life's comforts and its sweets
We have not come to splendor yet.
I still meet people every day
Whose names I know, who know me, too,
Who like to stop sometimes and say
A friendly word, as neighbors do.

JOHN SMITH is sad because our town
Is not a thronged metropolis,
But I am not at all cast down,
Nor sure that things have gone amiss.
We have no buildings that are high,
No streets where many thousands crowd,
But here my loved ones dwell, and I
Perhaps am foolish, but I'm proud.

Letters to the Editor

The Jewish Mandate

Editor Boston American:

Recognition by the remainder of the civilized world of the Jewish homeland is an occasion absolutely justifying genuine joy among those of Jewish faith wherever they are. The realization of the dreams of a whole people passed on through the generations for two thousand years is in itself very unique in the pages of history.

Jews have now another dream that may well expect to come true with the lapse of time. Now that they have been assured projection in the possession of Palestine, from which their forbears were driven by ruthless oppression, they may work for the glad day when the Holy Land will become a nation populated by Hebrews even as in biblical days. Already the backward flow has begun, and it may be that achievement of that aim will come within the vision of the present generation.

EUGENE BERTRAM WILLARD.

Primaries Useless

Editor Boston American:

Why do we hold presidential primaries when the popular vote of the country is not considered at the conventions for candidates? They certainly are not fooling the public any longer with their political tricks.

J. H. GRANT.

Stars and Stripes

We shall now hear a great deal regarding
A person named Warren G. Harding;
Has the G. O. P.'s chance
Come, at last, to advance,
Or will Harding be only retarding?

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By K. C. B.

I'D BEEN with my wife.
TO SEE Ed. Wynn.
AT THE Selwyn Theatre, in New York.
AND WE'D laughed so much.
THAT ALL of our troubles.
HAD FADED away.
AND WHEN we went out,
AND INTO the lights.
WE HADN'T a care.
AND I'D left our car.
IN AN open garage.
AND WE got it there.
AND STARTED home.
AND IT ceased to go.
AND ON Thirtieth street.
I FOUND a garage.
WITH A great big man.
AND A pail of beer.
OR MAYBE near beer.
AND I told the man.
OF THE grief I had.
AND HE looked in his beer.
AND IN surly tones.
HE LET me know.
THAT IN his young life.
THERE WAS no place.
FOR OTHERS' woes.
AND HE washed it down.
WITH A swig of beer.
AND SAID no word.
OF SYMPATHY.
AND I went my way.
AND AFTER a while.
A CHAUFFEUR lad.
FOUND OUT my plight.
AND BORROWED a truck.
AND PULLED me back.
AND DECLINED the gift.
THAT I offered him.
AND I'M hoping now.
THAT A day will come.
WHEN THE great big man.
WILL BE on the road.
AND BROKEN down.
AND I'LL come along.
WITH THE help he needs.
AND I'LL give it him.
AND AFTERWARD.
I'LL SPEAK of the time.
THAT HE turned me out.
AT THE midnight hour.
AND BRIGHT red coals.
WILL LIE on his head.
AND IF it's wooden.
AS I think it is.
THEY'LL BURN a hole.

I THANK you.

POSITIONS OF SUN AND MOON IN ECLIPSE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Will you tell me why, when the eclipse of the moon took place on May 2 at 7 o'clock; the sun was setting in the west, and at 9:15, when the eclipse took place, it was three-quarters east?—F. W., Brooklyn."

YOU are apparently confused by an error of observation which is very common, although the mistake would be impossible if people in general gave proper attention to the movements of the heavenly bodies, as much attention, for instance, as the old Egyptian priests did at the time when the great temples along the Nile were erected.

You say that on May 2 the sun "set in the west." How do you define "west"?

Properly speaking, west is one of the four cardinal points. Referred to the circle of the horizon, it lies half-way between north and south, and is exactly opposite to east. These two, i. e., west and east, are the points of intersection of the equator with the horizon, and there are only two days in the whole year when, as seen from any place on the earth except the equator, the sun can either rise in the east or set in the west.

These two days are the days of the vernal and autumnal equinoxes, when the sun crosses the plane of the equator, going northward in the Spring and southward in the Autumn. The vernal equinoxes occurred this year on March 20, and on that day the sun could be seen setting very close to the true west point. But on the evening of May 2 the sun had advanced fifteen degrees to the north of the equator, and in the latitude of Brooklyn it set over twenty degrees north of the west point.

In fact, the sun on that day set not many degrees short of west-north-west, and as it continued to get farther north of the prime vertical after it had sunk below the horizon, you should not have been surprised to find the eclipsed moon, after 9 p. m., considerably south of the east point, since she was compelled, in order to be in the earth's shadow, to place herself exactly opposite to the sun.

You say that when the eclipse took place "it," evidently meaning the eclipse, was "three-quarters east." At the time of the eclipse the direction of the moon was about east-south-east, which would be "three-quarters east" from the south point, so that your description is substantially correct in that respect.

The sun at the same time, although invisible below the horizon, had advanced to west-north-west, so that it was just where it had to be to produce an eclipse, viz., in an exact line with the earth and the moon and on the opposite side of the earth from the moon.

WOOL AND SHODDY

Where do you find your greatest pleasures, out of man-made, manufactured things or out of the great natural wonders?

Have you a sense of proportion which teaches you the things to be most admired?

Many persons who think they know a lot are lacking in sense of values.

The veneered effect means just as much to them as the solid worth of a masterpiece.

It is because they have not studied the difference between the real article and the imitation.

There is such a craze for change that the reality is too permanent to suit their taste.

And so some men slight their work and give for a reason that there may be a change before the year is out, so why put good work and time on something which may be torn out before long?

Teach your children to respect permanence. Pure gold today will be pure gold tomorrow.

Teach them to abhor the sham, the paint and plaster that cover up a worm-eaten interior. Make them learn to recognize the real things and the real people and the real object in living.

HAPPINESS DOES NOT DEPEND ON CASH

By Winifred Black

SUCH a pretty girl and so bright—oh, as bright as a brand-new dollar, fresh from the mint, twice as interesting and practical, too. She wears such pretty fresh smocks and neat little skirts and her gloves are always mended. There is no dust on the rim of her hat or even in the folds of the ribbon that goes around it, and that is the happy home for dust.

She has such nice, trim, little ankles; neat, pretty, little feet; soft hair with a kink in it, a good skin and merry, regular eyes; but oh, her mouth! Why, it almost spoils the whole thing.

Yes, it is pretty enough or would be if she would let it, but she turns it down at the corners and smiles sarcastically. At first I couldn't think what was the matter with it.

The other day she told me. And what do you think it is that is embittering every minute of her life and turning her from a gay, light-hearted, happy girl to a cynical, embittered woman?

Money, that's all—just plain, common, everyday, miserable money—and the love of it and the lack of it.

She is a stenographer in a great, big, luxurious hotel, and an exceedingly good stenographer at that. She can spell and she can punctuate. She knows that there is such a city as Chicago and such a thing as a Bolshevik. She has tact, courtesy and discernment.

What She Longs for

She makes money enough to live comfortably, does pretty little Miss Money-Faddist. She is independent and has good health and youth. What more does she want?

She wants love and a home and a good husband. She wants fine clothes and a limousine for rainy weather and an open car for sunny weather and new gloves whenever she needs them and becoming hats and boxes at the theatre and lunch of friends. And she says she can't get a single one of these things without money—not a single one.

Love? Who that is worth while will make love to her. She has no time for such things.

Friends? How can she make friends when she slaves from 9 in the morning till 5 at night? Her husband? Well, that's simply out of the question. She lives in a tiny flat that can't entertain. What man that is worth while is going to ask a girl like that to be his wife?

Crazy? No, she isn't. She is just warped, that's all. So warped that she is letting her clear, brilliant mind become obscure; so warped that she is spoiling her beauty and wasting her youth—all for nothing.

The three happiest wives I know, and I know a good many happy wives, thank goodness, happen to be women who have worked for a living. One of them was a school teacher, one was an actress, and one was a public stenographer.

The school teacher met her husband at a teachers' convention, where he came to speak. The actress met her husband at a Summer camp in the Adirondacks, and the public stenographer met hers at her desk when he came to dictate a letter to her.

Money Won't Buy Happiness

The school teacher married a highbrow, but a rich highbrow. She and her husband give all their money away to charity and live very plainly in a college settlement.

The husband of the actress is a quiet, sensible fellow with a little place of his own. They live in the woods in the plainest little shack you ever saw, and the actress laughs at the very idea of being homesick. She and her husband have something like $1,200 a year to live on and they are saving $300 and don't want another cent.

The public stenographer married a swell who was tired of society. She has money now and a big house and troops of friends. She is happy, but I think she is a little bored sometimes.

Money? What in the world has money got to do with real, genuine happiness we all fight so hard to get? Nothing and less than nothing.

A good disposition and a light heart—these are the gifts of the gods. I do wish the pretty girl would pray for them. Maybe if she prayed hard enough she would get them and then she would be happy indeed.
